You are invited to Art Walk in Little Havana presented by Miami Lighthouse.

The Miami Lighthouse campaign is the cause for the community’s latest works of art: four distinctive pieces designed by nationally recognized artists. With homage to our early lessons, we hope to inspire our community to walk, see, and think differently. After a brief speech and dedication, the artists will be available to discuss their works, which will be on display through Oct. 20.

Our students created a unique National Day of Service project.

Students from our Righteous Children’s Children Project were proud to participate in our community’s first National Day of Service. They worked with Miami Lighthouse Special Needs Program students and handed-hearted packages to seniors in the Miami Lighthouse Special Needs Program.

Our teenagers are learning to live actively.

An existing grant from the Society for the Blind Foundation has enabled Miami Lighthouse to become one of 16 organizations nationwide to participate in a national pilot program for the Righteous Children’s Children Project, a program inspired by the Society for the Blind’s efforts to aid blind children.

As part of the program, students are placed with Miami Lighthouse families for mentorship. The program is designed to help students become better integrated into society.
