

Posted on Thu, Apr. 26, 2012

A night of music, bidding at Miami Lighthouse for the Blind

DANIEL BOCK / FOR THE MIAMI HERALD

The fifth annual 'Music Under the Stars' event at the Miami Lighthouse for the Blind and Visually Impaired in Little Havana on Friday featured a silent auction. The fundraiser also featured music by members of the Miami Lighthouse Better Chance Music Production Program, samples from local restaurants, and a visit by internationally renowned musician Jose Feliciano.

Internationally known musician Jose Feliciano joins Gyorgy Lakatos, with the Miami Lighthouse Better Chance Music Production Program, during the fifth annual Music Under the Stars event at the Miami Lighthouse for the Blind and Visually Impaired, Friday, April 20, 2012, in Little Havana. The fundraiser also featured a silent auction and samples from local restaurants.

Alberto Carvalho, superintendent for Miami-Dade Public Schools, reads a letter from President Barack Obama honoring the Heiken children's vision program at the Miami Lighthouse for the Blind and Visually Impaired during the fifth annual Music Under the Stars event at the center, Friday, April 20, 2012, in Little Havana. The fundraiser also featured a silent auction, samples from local restaurants, and a visit by internationally known musician Jose Feliciano.

Senator Gwen Margolis speaks during the fifth annual Music Under the Stars event at the Miami Lighthouse for the Blind and Visually Impaired, Friday, April 20, 2012, in Little Havana. The fundraiser also featured music by members of the Miami Lighthouse Better Chance Music Production Program, samples from local restaurants, and a visit by internationally known musician Jose Feliciano.

Members of the Miami Lighthouse Better Chance Music Production Program perform during the fifth annual Music Under the Stars event at the Miami Lighthouse for the Blind and Visually Impaired, Friday, April 20, 2012, in Little Havana. The fundraiser also featured a silent auction, samples from local restaurants, and a visit by internationally known musician Jose Feliciano.

Miami Lighthouse Better Chance Music Production Program members Alexei Velezquez, left, and Oman Pedreira perform during the fifth annual Music Under the Stars event at the Miami Lighthouse for the Blind and Visually Impaired, Friday, April 20, 2012, in Little Havana. The fundraiser also featured a silent auction, samples from local restaurants, and a visit by internationally known musician Jose Feliciano.

Some of the items that were available in the silent auction that was part of the fifth annual Music Under the Stars event at the Miami Lighthouse for the Blind and Visually Impaired, Friday, April 20, 2012, in Little Havana. The fundraiser also featured music by members of the Miami Lighthouse Better Chance Music Production Program, samples from local restaurants, and a visit by internationally known musician Jose Feliciano.

Quayside resident Marion Mosheim bids on art during the silent auction that was part of the fifth annual Music Under the Stars event at the Miami Lighthouse for the Blind and Visually Impaired, Friday, April 20, 2012, in Little Havana. The fundraiser also featured music by members of the Miami Lighthouse Better Chance Music Production Program, samples from local restaurants, and a visit by internationally known musician Jose Feliciano.